Insight through Nature

"I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived."

H.D. Thoreau, *Walden

A 35,000 kilometer travel through over 35 national and state parks, this collection of photos presents a unique view of the natural and man-made world, contrasting wilderness and human activity.

I hope that through my photographs, I inspire others to preserve our natural environment, which enriches our lives in ways we cannot fully understand or appreciate.

This trip inspired me to love and preserve nature. My time in nature helps me to cope with the daily craziness of normal city life.

In Yellowstone National Park, I saw a fascinating film about the park's wolves, and it inspired me to photograph and film nature in its own way of doing things.

I love to photograph wild animals because I can be with them in the most beautiful parts of the world, and I can witness these animals living in harmony with their natural surroundings.
